

Dan Welch tries his best in the standing block chop.

Mike Koers is almost through chopping the top block in the springboard chop event. He easily won the heat in which he competed.

Will Roberts came in second as he tops off his cut in the Men's Springboard event.

The Clarkson "Good Neighbor Day" events on August 26 drew a good crowd and, in spite of a sky that hinted at showers, the afternoon events were carried out under pleasant, dry conditions. Photographs by Walter Horylev.

Mike Kimball climbs a giant pole to attach an American flag and start the Lumberjack and Jill Contest.

The finalists in the Frog Jump contest are lined up in the center of a quadrant, waiting for the start signal.

Amy Joerger, six-years-old, kept blowing on the back of her frog, trying to induce it to jump but, it wouldn't cooperate.

The happy winners of the Frog Jump contest show off their trophies presented by Committeeman Bob Rejewski. Clarkson residents Julian King won first place with jumper "Energizer" and brother Nicholas won second place with his frog, "Uno," followed by Mitchell Robarge of Naples, New York. Mitchell's parents were competing in the Lumberjack and Jills contest.

Erica Schreiner and LaVonne Mikloiche pull a log over to the peg to touch in at the tum of the log roll. They placed third.

Chris Cicora placed second with an impressive performance in the men's bow saw event.
